

THE MUSSEL ROUTE

During my summers, I have been working in tourist travel companies, so I decided to create this page using all the knowledge I acquired during that time.

The page will focus on the Mussel Route, provide information about the boats, and allow users to book their trips directly.

NAVIGATION

On this page, navigation is quick and easy through the left side menus, where you can access:

- Home page (HOME)
- Description (DESCRIPTION)
- Make a reservation (TAKE YOUR TICKET)

When you log in, the option to log out (LOGOUT) will also appear, which will take you back to the home page. These options are present on all pages, except for the login and purchase confirmation pages.

Additionally, there will be two buttons that allow you to access the login and purchase pages. To proceed, it will be necessary to complete the mandatory fields in the form.

The last navigation element is the end.php file, which is a link that allows you to log out and return to the home page (RETURN HOME).

The project structure is organized as follows:

- The main files of the pages, along with this document, are located in the root directory of the project.
- There are 3 folders for storing CSS styles, images used on the pages, and PHP code fragments that are included on the pages.

CSS folder:

All pages apply the mainStyle.css, which defines the font, colors, and the layout of containers like the menu, among others. The other CSS files are specific to other pages.

IMG folder:

This is where the images used throughout the page are stored, as well as those used in this document.

Fragment folder:

In this folder, you will find all the included elements for the PHP pages, such as the file that ends the session and redirects you to the home page (logout.php).

We have multiple boats, which belong to different companies. We all provide the same service and follow the same route at the same price. By working together, all vessels prepare trips so that a catamaran can depart every half hour within the agreed schedule, always trying to be as punctual as possible. This also helps when organizing the boat's capacity, as we share the customers and distribute them so that all boats leave with the same number of people.

All these boats depart from the port of O Grove, and the boarding gates are numbered from 1 to 4.

WHAT IS THE MUSSEL ROUTE
